

Christina DuPuy has been dancing and performing for the past 17 years. She began dancing Jazz, Ballet and Lyrical at age 16, and within 2 years was rehearsing 3-5 hours per day and performing in packed theaters to hundreds of people. In 1996 she discovered Ballroom, Salsa and Swing while living in Sacramento, California. She immediately signed on with a ballroom studio and began learning the art of teaching as well as honing her stage character and performance skills. Over the next 3 ½ years, she was featured on the cover of a magazine, in three East Coast Swing and featured throughout the Maureen Reilly along with prominent Sacramento instructional videos on Salsa, Lindy Hop, and has also been book “Swing Style” written by several other local publications in the Sacramento area. After numerous performances throughout Northern California, she traveled Europe for several months to immerse herself further in the unique style and acrobatic side of Lindy Hop. Upon returning to the States, she met and married a handsome Texas man and spent the majority of the next 7 years raising a family. She now lives, teaches and competes with her students in the DFW area, and she will begin competing professionally in Ballroom in the fall of 2010.
